1. What is the job of a constructor? What is distinctive about the call signature of a constructor as compared to a regular method?

2. What is the difference between an accessor and a manipulator? What other names do they go by?

3. What is the term that applies when you have two methods that share the same name, but different parameter lists?

4. Which parts of your program require Javadoc comments?